LOCATION

Dunfermline is a City of considerable historical interest being a former seat of the Kings of Scotland, the birthplace of Andrew Carnegie and the final resting place of King Robert the Bruce whose remains are buried in Dunfermline Abbey. Whilst the Abbey and the Palace Ruins, Carnegie's Birthplace and Abbot House reflect much of the historical past of the town, developments in recent years have seen Dunfermline move very much into the modern era whilst still retaining much of its original charm. The amenities in the centre of town are augmented by those found at the excellent Fife Leisure Park and Halbeath Retail Park located adjacent to Junction 3 of the M90 on the eastern periphery of town. Dunfermline is located only 5 miles from the Forth Road Bridge, the southern gateway to Fife, and is therefore particularly popular with commuters to Edinburgh and many other parts of the Central Belt. The town is also ideally located for access to the many areas of natural beauty to be found in Fife and benefits from the full range of social amenities, leisure facilities and educational establishments associated with a modern town. There are good motorway links to Edinburgh, Perth, Dundee and Glasgow whilst the local transport infrastructure includes good commuter services by rail to Edinburgh and all points on The Fife Circle. There is also a wide range of bus services to town and country whilst Edinburgh Airport is only 40 minute's drive
